CARTERSVILLE, Ga., April 18.—Two Atlantans and one other person were killed tonight, and three were injured when the northbound Flamingo, fast Louisville and Nashville passenger train, wrecked in a cut in the Allatoona mountains, three miles south of here.

The dead:
George Evans, 52, 41 Candler drive, S. E., Atlanta.
A. H. Perry, 733 North avenue, N. W., Atlanta.

Denny A. Giles, 42, fireman, of Etowah, Tenn.
Perry, a hobo, was caught between the engine and the mail car.

Three others, who were among five hoboes between the baggage car and the engine, were hurt. One of them, who was not identified, was taken to an Atlanta hospital where physicians said he was dying. Two others, identified at a Cartersville hospital as Paul R. Adkins, 25, of Easton, Ga., and Owen Frank Camblin, 24, of Gray, Ga., were not hurt seriously.

Although all passengers were badly shaken up, Conductor L. C. Butcher, of Knoxville, Tenn., said no one was seriously injured.

Evans was the engineer of the train, which left Atlanta about 6:30 o'clock. The wreck, cause of which was undetermined late tonight, occurred about 8 p. m. when the Flamingo engine left the rails in the Allatoona pass.

The engine and fireman were scalded to death in the cab of the engine. Giles' body was lifted out through a window of the overturned.

Northside Drug Store Loses $250 to Bandits

Courtesy Drug Company, at 2305 Peachtree road, was robbed of $250 Monday night by four well-dressed young white men, according to Dr. John L. Courtney Sr., owner of the store.

The proprietor reported to county police that he and his son, John L. Courtney Jr., were alone in the store when the youths entered, forced them into a rear room at the point of a pistol and then looted the safe and the cash register. Descriptions of the four young men were furnished police by Dr. Courtney.

Halts Trial

Judge James E. Horton Monday definitely postponed the retrial of the "Scottsboro" negroes at Decatur, Ark., on the ground that statements by the defense counsel have so prejudiced the case of the defendant as to make a fair trial impossible at this time. Story in page 2.

79 SOLONS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO BEER

Poll Results to Date Given
Talmadge by Representative E. A. Epting.

Representative Eugene A. Epting, of Clarke county, leader in the fight for a special session of the legislature to legalize 3.2 per cent beer in Georgia, told Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday that he had been pledged from 79 of the 254 members of the general assembly.

The governor is known to be awaiting information on the views of the legislature before summoning the assembly into extraordinary session. It is expected that the session will be called when and if the members notify the governor that they will approve a measure making the federal beer law applicable to Georgia.

Representative Roy V. Harris, of Richmond county, house floor leader, who is conducting another poll which seeks the views of members on other legislation as well as beer, has announced that he has more than 100 pledges for his legislation and has predicted the passage of a beer legislation bill by a two-to-one vote in both houses.

The latest members to signify their intention of supporting a beer measure as announced by Representative Epting follow:

Senator J. F. Morris, of Pearson; Senator E. J. Dorman, of Fitzgerald; Representative Loren Gary, of Quitman county; Representative Abe Minch, of Atlanta; Representative C. R. Vaughn, of Rockdale county; Representative W. H. Hampton, of Gilmer county; and Representative Russell Twitty, of Ware county.

Representative Will C. Stokes, of Twiggs county, returned to Atlanta Monday after a week's tour of the state. He reported a widespread sentiment for beer legislation.

Governor Talmadge Monday continued his silence on the beer question.

Drastic Cut Looms For Army Personnel

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—A reduction of between two and fifteen thousand in the enlisted personnel of the army and of two or three thousand officers is involved in the war department's impending economy program.

President Roosevelt has ordered a cut of $144,000,000 in next year's war department expenses.

Secretary Dern will present the economy plan to the president tomorrow.

General King received orders from the war department to take over administration of the camps in his corps and obtained authorization to call to duty reserve officers in the event there were not enough regular army officers available.

It has not yet been determined who will pass upon the applications for enlistment in the corps, but it is generally understood that this task will fall to Herman De La Perriere, state director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. De La Perriere left Atlanta Monday for Washington, where tonight he will attend a conference with labor department officials regarding the enlistment of corps members.

Under present regulations only single men between the ages of 18 and 25 and who have dependents will be accepted for the corps. These must allot from $22.50 to $25 of the $30 per month they receive to their dependents.

The instructions received by General King from Washington provide that the corps area commander does not have enough regular army officers under his command to administer the camps of his area, he may summon for duty six reserve officers for each 1,000 men in the C. C. C.

The officers are to be equally divided between the medical corps and line organizations, one captain and two lieutenants of the medical corps and one captain and two lieutenants of line organizations.

'BIG STEEL' SOUNDS OPTIMISTIC NOTE ON 1933 OUTLOOK

Stockholders of United States Steel Told That Operations Are at Best
Level of More Than Year.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

HOBOKEN, N. J., April 17.—(AP)—"Big steel" today sounded the most optimistic note of the past year or more.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, at the annual stockholders' meeting here, disclosed that the company's operations were at 21 per cent of rate capacity this week, the highest since March, last year.

At the same time, the shareholders unanimously adopted a resolution supporting President Roosevelt's economic program and Mr. Taylor declared, upon submitting the motion:

"We have always supported the presidents of our country, but I gladly put this resolution because I feel with you that we are on the road to better things."

Some 200 shareholders, both men and women, shared a steady downpour of rain to attend today's meeting. Unlike the session last year, there was no caustic or pointed questions asked of the management, and nobody wanted to know why there were no dividends on the common stock or why the preferred rate had been placed on a $2 annual basis instead of the previous regular $1 rate.

It is expected that the session will be called when and if the members notify the governor that they will approve a measure making the federal beer law applicable to Georgia.

Capone's Men Arrested While Helping Factor

JAKE FACTOR. JEROME FACTOR.

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Possibility that members of the Capone gang, assisting in the search for kidnapped Jerome Factor, had obtained a "lead," was indicated here tonight as police apprehended six of them inspecting "rogues' gallery" photographs of three men suspected of membership in a northern Illinois extortion ring.

Police raided a loop hotel room and found the sextet studying pictures of Ted Patterson, 28, Archie Brown, 26, both of Chicago, and Joseph Varcolona.

Patterson was arrested here last February by state police on a charge of kidnapping Varcolona today was arraigned at Peoria, Ill., on a similar charge and pleaded not guilty. Brown and Patterson each are at liberty on bond pending trial for bank robbery in Sangamon county.

State Policeman Hal Roberts, of Dixon, one of the officers who has been investigating the ring, when informed of the finding of the pictures, said "it appears likely that the Capone gang suspects one or more of the three of knowing something of the Factor case."

Police Lieutenant William Blaul and a squad of police went to a room in the hotel late this afternoon and took to detective headquarters six of the Factor case.

Miss Lou Beall Fatally Injured; 4 Other 'Women Hurt in Crashes.

Miss Lou Beall, 60, of 363 Markham street, was killed early Monday night when she was struck by a car driven by a British subject, at a Courtland street address, at the corner of Mitchell and Mangum streets.

North was held by police without bond on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving. Miss Beall received fractures of the right leg, right hip and right arm, and serious cuts about the head and face.

Mrs. Fred Orr, of 197 Avery drive, a civil engineer with the Georgia state highway department, collided with the automobile of W. A. Claude, of the Hampton hotel, at Piedmont avenue and Morningstar drive. Mrs. Orr is suffering from shock and is being treated by a private physician at her home. Cases of reckless driving were made against both drivers.

Three young women were badly cut and bruised Monday afternoon when automobiles driven by Mrs. G. F. Walford, of 496 McDonough boulevard, and Miss Margaret Kilber, of 1102 Springdale road, N. E., collided at the intersection of Pulliam and Glenn streets, according to police and hospital reports.

Miss Kilber and Miss Jabe Sheffield, of 1183 Clifton road, N. E., and Miss Evelyn Morris, of 1106 Ardmore street, were taken to the Piedmont hospital, where attaches said they were cut and bruised but not seriously injured. Mrs. Walford was unhurt. No case was made against either driver, according to police.

Cripple, Hit by Auto, Succumbs to Injuries

Bruce Woods, crippled banjo player on a team of musicians well known on downtown Atlanta streets, who was injured Sunday morning when he was hit by a car, died Monday night.

Hazel, who had one leg amputated, is in a serious condition at the hospital.

Woods, who lived in Egan, Ga., and Hazel were en route to Woods' home when the accident occurred. The car which struck and fatally injured Woods sped away and has not been traced. Funeral arrangements had not been made Monday night.

Former Georgia Man Ends Life in Capital

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Charles R. Williams, a native of Columbus, Ga., jumped from a third floor porch and was killed today, less than a half an hour after he had been released from Walter Reed hospital here. He was 62 years old and in recent years has maintained a home in the capital.

NEW CITY BUDGET, CARRYING PAY CUT, VOTED BY COUNCIL

All Non-School Employees
To Be Reduced Five Per Cent; Prompt Payment of Salaries Is Forecast.

Distribution of more than $500,000 in back due salaries to 4,000 municipal employees within the next few days was believed to be a step nearer Monday night as the result of the passage by council of a revised city financial sheet.

The sheet, calling for expenditures of approximately $9,700,000 for the year, carries an additional 5 per cent blanket slash for about 2,600 non-school employees, and a proviso that the new cut will be reinstated if the $588,000 worth of municipal bonds due this year are refunded; provides that the school department purchase about $300,000 worth of school bonds for use of students; sets up $2,140,000 as the school fund from city revenue for the year and places an additional $208,000 in a contingent fund for schools.

Approval of the measure by council and the aldermanic board came as a surprise move and was brought about through a desire of council leaders to obtain funds with which to meet payrolls, now six weeks in arrears. The revised sheet carries all locations of about $35,000 more than the previously approved sheet, but Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, finance committee chairman, and B. Grammer, city comptroller, announced they believe it will meet the approval of Atlanta banks, re-establish Atlanta's credit and provide immediate cash to meet the payrolls.

Other Action Taken.
In addition, council took the following action on other matters:

1. Overrode the veto of Mayor James L. Key to a council resolution.

Parking Lot Barred Near Candler's Zoo

Operation of a parking lot on Briarcliff road, across from the Brantford zoo, Monday was temporarily enjoined by Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the superior court.

Handed down in a suit brought by Mrs. Helene Joel Heyman and others in DeKalb superior court against A. O. Candler Jr., owner of the zoo, and David Hill.

The case created considerable interest in view of the fact that neighbors of Candler have protested against his placing a parking lot in proximity to his home. Homer H. Howard, DeKalb tax commissioner, is awaiting a reply from the zoo owner in answer to a demand for a show tax of $100 a year for each day that admission has been charged.

Chest Re-elects Frank Neely After Best Year in History

Reporting that the Atlanta Community Chest achieved a greater record than any other American city except one during 1932, executive members and directors of the group met Monday to lay plans for 1933 and the election of new officers. Frank H. Neely was re-elected president, while T. Guy Woolford, James L. Wells and Samuel C. Dobbs were named vice presidents.

It was announced that the campaign chairman would be named by the executive committee at a later date.

Pointing out that Richmond, Va., was the only city in the country to reach its quota for the Community Chest last year, the report made by Arthur S. Bird, campaign chairman for the last drive, showed that a total of $449,606 was given by citizens to the Chest fund and to the special emergency relief fund, a sum which came nearer to the quota of $500,000 than that achieved by any other city in the country.

A total of $374,244 was subscribed toward the $400,000 Chest fund and $75,352 went toward the $100,000 emergency relief fund. Reports enthusiastically supported the management and complimented officers in their work.

An important decision resulting from the meeting will change the by-laws of the Chest corporation's charter. Specific work to be done was outlined and it was shown that a saving of from 25 to 35 per cent is possible for the 38 agencies in the Chest through the co-operative plan of work.

In his annual report, Frank Miller, executive director of the Chest, said all allocations were paid to the 38 organizations in the group. He urged continued effort along social welfare lines and explained how the advances made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had made it possible to

Appointed Treasurer

George B. Hamilton, Atlanta accountant, who Monday was appointed state treasurer to succeed the late Mark L. Ledford, who died here Friday.

HAMILTON NAMED STATE TREASURER

Atlanta Accountant Given
Post He Won by Popular Vote in 1932.

George B. Hamilton, Atlanta accountant, who won the post of state treasurer by popular vote, but lost it under the unit vote system in last year's primary, Monday was appointed by Governor Eugene Talmadge to complete the unexpired term of the late treasurer, Mark L. Ledford.

Mr. Hamilton was sworn in by the governor and assumed his new duties immediately.

The new treasurer announced that for the present, at least, he planned no change in the personnel of the office, announcing the re-appointment of J. O. Anderson and Horace Hixon as assistant treasurers.

The new treasurer obtained a popular vote majority of about 1,300 votes over Mr. Ledford in the 1932 primary, but was defeated by two unit votes.

He contested the nomination and carried his fight to the Macon convention, which ruled in Mr. Ledford's favor. After the decision, Mr. Hamilton addressed the convention, pledged his full support to the democratic party and announced that he would be a candidate for the treasurer's post in 1934.

A large majority of the state committee, which voted against him at the convention, had urged Governor Talmadge to name him to the vacancy.

Forestry Camp No. 1 Receives First Recruits

PRESIDENTIAL FORESTRY CAMP NO. 1, NEAR LURAY, Va., April 17.—(UP)—Exactly 200 foot-sore members of President Roosevelt's reforestation army trudged into camp after the night to inaugurate the administration's vast attempt at direct unemployment relief.

The youths rode from Fort Washington, Md., in buses which stopped on the precarious trail crossing Massanutten mountain. The amateur foresters crawled out wearily, along on their packs and walked the rest of way to this camp in the wilderness of George Washington National forest.

Here they must build a barracks which will serve as a model for the housing of 250,000 men who will be distributed in the national forests throughout the country.

The amateur woodsmen were forced to build from the ground up. There were no buildings, no sheds, not even any tents awaiting them. Even their well was incomplete.

RUSSELL FAVORS INFLATION PLAN

George Not Recorded in Roll Call That Sees Democrats Split; New Plan
Comes Up Today.

By DON J. KIRKLEY.
WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—A soft-spoken word from the White House today crushed in defeat senate advocates of monetary inflation as a means of aiding the farmer.

Their proposal to add remonetization of silver to President Roosevelt's far-reaching agricultural relief bill was defeated, 43 to 33.

Senator Russell, Georgia's junior senator, was among the 25 democrats who voted for free coinage. Senator George did not vote. Seven republicans were recorded for the amendment, while 20 republicans and 23 democrats voted "no."

Amid Bryanesque echoes of the turbulent '96 campaign, the senate resounded all afternoon to a cry for free coinage of the white metal at 16-to-1 with gold, sponsored by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, and urged by others.

The chief executive's opposition to making currency inflation part of the farm program was considered by many senators the decisive factor in defeating the silver inflation plan. Opponents were amazed by the strength shown for it and said several who favored inflation voted against it only because Mr. Roosevelt did not want it added to the agriculture bill.

The Idahoan had been insisting that only through expansion of the currency could commodity prices be lifted, the depression ended and the farmers' income restored. He contended farm relief and inflation went hand in hand.

Unleashed by this setback, but cheered by the gain from last January, when his silver plan was defeated 56 to 18, Wheeler announced off the floor he would create it separately later on. Meanwhile Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, brought formally before the senate another inflation plan.

Thomas' proposal would give President Roosevelt broad power to expand the currency, remonetize silver or reduce the gold content of the dollar. Debate on it will open at 11 a. m. tomorrow, the senate meeting an hour.

Government Cotton-Purchase Plan Is Advanced by Rome Businessman

A plan calling for government purchase of cotton which, its author claimed, would solve the farm problem and cost the government nothing, was advanced Monday by J. P. Jones, of Rome, head of the J. P. Jones Financial Reports.

Under this plan, the government would pay the farmer $80 a bale for his cotton until 5,000,000 bales were bought. Cotton then would double in price, Mr. Jones claimed, and the farm board's supply of 3,000,000 bales would be worth $180,000,000 instead of only $90,000,000, as at present.

"When three competing merchants find they are losing business," Mr. Jones said, "one buys out the other two. Today 9,000,000 bales of carry-over cotton hold down the price. Of this amount 4,000,000 is a normal carry-over, but 5,000,000 are still left."

"My plan is for the government to go to the farmers now as they are planting the new crop, and give each $80 per bale in exchange for their abandonment of cotton this year. Of this, the landlord would get a fourth, if the farmer were a renter. This offer would apply to farmers who had been engaged in that occupation say for five years.

"This offer would apply until 5,000,000 bales had been bought. The effect would be to double the price of cotton. The farm board then would get 12 cents for its cotton amounting to 3,000,000 bales, or $180,000,000, for what is now worth only $90,000,000."

The purchase would provide that the farmer raise only grain and food crops on his land, Mr. Jones explained. He said that the objection to the leasing plan was that a farmer who leased his land to the government could turn over his equipment to someone else for the purpose of raising cotton.

"This plan," Mr. Jones added, "would give the south a purchasing power of $500,000,000 and would end the depression."

No laws and no subsidy would be necessary, he explained. Mr. Jones added that inflation, as he had observed it in Europe, had not worked well. If adopted at all, it should be only as a last resort.

CARRIES ALL-BRAN ON EVERY VOYAGE

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Darragh:

"I have been going to sea for the past fourteen years. Every trip, I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessness. Tried all sorts of remedies, and received only temporary relief.

"So hearing about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago, haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 32nd Avenue, Oakland, California.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much pleasanter this is than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two table-spoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Trip to Fair Offered to Couple With Best Ideas on Marriage

Put aside that jigsaw puzzle for a moment and win a free trip to the Century of Progress, the world's fair, in Chicago.

It's a glorious chance. All entrants paid! See the signs of the city. Study the wonders of the fair. Three days as the guest of Mary Pickford!

And all you have to do to win it for your husband or wife, or in collaboration by both, or by any members of the family, or friend. But it must be signed by the competing couple, and must tell their secrets of marital happiness.

This letter may be written by either husband or wife, or in collaboration by both, or by any members of the family, or friend. But it must be signed by the competing couple, and must tell their secrets of marital happiness.

It doesn't matter how long you have been married, so perhaps you can make this your honeymoon. Or if you have been married long enough, your golden wedding trip! Think of the fun! No responsibilities. Just a great lark—another honeymoon!

Watch for the registration blanks which will appear in this paper. Read the rules carefully, and see how simple it will be to win.

Watch for the "Secrets of Marital Happiness" film star!—"America's Sweetheart!"

Watch for the new picture, "Secrets," which comes to the Loew's Grand next Friday. It has for its theme the secrets of marital happiness. And it's just fresh from Broadway where it was one of the sensational hits of New York. The secrets of marital happiness you know, are merely the rules; the real secret is the picture. Miss Pickford had to apply some of these rules. Perhaps they are the same rules you have had to apply. All married couples are pioneering on a new frontier—the frontier of modern life. Write your idea of all this; tell what you believe the secrets of marital happiness are for those who are out on the matrimonial trail.

Some of our foremost citizens will serve as judges. They will be persons of wide experience and thoroughly capable of judging who knows best the secrets of marital happiness.

Watch for the names of these judges. We will announce them the day Miss Pickford's picture opens at Loew's Grand.

Officials at the Century of Progress are making great preparations to receive Atlanta's Lucky Married Couple. They have a great program lined up, with many surprises in this wonderful distance of down-town Chicago.

SCOTTSBORO TRIAL DELAYED BY COURT

Judge Rules That Liebowitz Statement Prejudices Case of Client.

DECATUR, Ala., April 17.—(P)—The Scottsboro cases were postponed indefinitely today because the court held a purported criticism of Alabama juries by Samuel L. Liebowitz, of defense counsel, had prejudiced the cases against his own clients.

Judge James E. Horton directed postponement of the remaining cases against seven negroes charged with assaulting two white girl hoboes and rebuked Liebowitz.

A statement that appeared in the New York Herald Tribune and credited to the New York attorney, who volunteered to defend the negroes and lost his first case down here, was responsible for the unexpected action.

Concerning the jury that convicted Haywood Patterson—first of the negroes to face retrial here—the New York paper quoted Liebowitz like this:

"If you ever saw those creatures, those bigots whose mouths are slits in their faces, whose eyes pop out at you like frogs, whose china chips of bawdy, bawdy, bawdy and filthy, you would not ask how they could do it."

Judge Horton, who was praised by Liebowitz for his conduct of the Patterson trial, said he did not know whether the leading counsel for the defense in the statements imputed to him. It could make little difference whether he actually said it or not. The effect would be the same. The published statement was uncalled for.

The judge who had charged the jury in the Patterson case to forget color and creed and state lines said today that the accused negro "must be a victim of this statement."

"His leading attorney (Liebowitz) would be a millstone about his neck," said Judge Horton.

The court then ordered a continuance of the case against "Charlie Weems—second of the Scottsboro boys to face retrial—until such time when in its judgment a fair and impartial trial may be had."

The dramatic climax to the long-continued Scottsboro cases came after Judge Horton had sentenced Patterson to die in the electric chair June 16 for criminal assault on Mrs. Victoria Price, a Huntsville cotton mill worker.

Liebowitz was not present when the decision was made. He has not returned here from New York. The statements attributed to Liebowitz "must make impossible a just and impartial verdict," the judge said today after reading both attorneys' published statements.

The judge held that the "defendants' chief counsel was at fault" in the newspaper battle between him and Knight on the merits or demerits of Alabama juries.

"It is the duty of this court to see that the defendant has a fair trial," said Judge Horton.

LIEBOWITZ AGAIN RAPS
"ALABAMA ATTITUDE"
NEW YORK, April 17.—(P)—Attorney Samuel S. Liebowitz issued a statement today in which he said: "The millions around the necks of the Scottsboro boys is that Alabama attitude which made the 12 Decatur jurors guffaw as they pushed Heywood Patterson toward the electric chair last Palm Sunday morn."

His statement followed receipt of the news that Judge James E. Horton had postponed the remaining trials of the accused Scottsboro negroes, saying that because of an utterance by Liebowitz about the jury that convicted Heywood Patterson he would be "a mill stone" about the neck of the next man to be tried.

"I respect Judge Horton and the fair-minded people of the state who are willing to extend to their colored fellow citizens the protection of the law which we take as a thing for granted in New York," he said.

As for the rest, the baying pack, the wolves of bigotry, who raised the Hitler cry of 'Jew money from New York' because we dared to demand a square deal for a poor unfortunate whose skin was black, I stand pat."

NORTH CAROLINA JURY
DURHAM, N. C., April 17.—(P)—Judge M. V. Barnhill, acting on the petition of negro attorneys, today ordered Durham county authorities to appear here him to testify whether names of negroes were placed in the grand and petit jury boxes along with those of white men.

The negro attorneys were acting for James Tucker, negro, charged with second-degree murder of Charlie Brooks, white, who was killed during a riot at the Durham County Home December 1932.

In addition to this petition, the attorneys also entered a motion that the indictment be set aside on the ground that negroes were barred from the grand jury.

The question, lawyers here said, was similar to that raised in Alabama at the start of the "Scottsboro trial."

No More.
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., April 17.—(P)—Division headquarters of the coast guard will remain in Fort Lauderdale indefinitely because all Jacksonville office site bids have been rejected, Captain C. F. Howell, commander, said today he had been notified by Rear Admiral H. G. Hamlet.

Mrs. Roosevelt Voices Warning On 'False Economy' in U. S. Savings

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(P)—A warning against "false economy" and budgetary savings now that would harm future generations came from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today as she paused to speak to the press in the midst of a busy day.

The first lady spoke shortly before boarding an airplane for New York to assist tonight in awarding a medal to Cecilia Bow, portrait painter, the winner of this year's prize given annually by the Chi Omega committee.

Contemplating no slackening in her busy pace, Mrs. Roosevelt plans to attend a party tomorrow at her own Tudor city school, address a Jewish welfare federation luncheon Wednesday and attend a Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Travelers' Aid Society, before returning to the capital that night by train.

Informed by newspaperwomen who talked to her today that scientific workers in Washington were apprehensive of their fate under the economy bill, Mrs. Roosevelt replied she herself had received a "flood of telegrams" on the enthusiasm of funds for experimental and extension work.

She said she had sent these telegrams on to the budget director, but that naturally she did not know what the budget director might feel he must do about it.

In the desire for economy, Mrs. Roosevelt added, this country must weigh what will do possible harm, and what can be done without harm to future generations.

20 MILLER DEALERS DISCUSS 1933 PLANS

Twenty I. Miller shoe dealers in the southeastern district met at the Henry Grady hotel Monday and will continue in session today. They discussed advertising and promotion plans for 1933, and are being entertained while here by Dave Hirsch, manager of Regenstein's shoe department.

Irving G. Grossman, sales manager of the company; George Goldsmith, its southern representative, and E. P. Teschner, a representative, attended the meeting and addressed the dealers.

It was pointed out that the representatives of the company came down to the meeting to emphasize the style and quality idea in Miller shoes, as opposed to mere price appeal.

The dealers expressed themselves as pleased with the company's merchandising plans for the coming year, and all were optimistic over the outlook.

Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the state highway commission, announced Monday that he would call a meeting of the board for "some day this week" to consider the instructions given by Governor Talmadge to reduce the budget of the department $170,000 for the current fiscal year.

The board chairman said that B. P. McWhorter, chief engineer, and several others ordered dismissed by the governor were still on the payroll and would remain so until stricken by the board.

The chairman said the meeting would be held this morning at 10 o'clock at the convenience of his fellow commissioners, Jud P. Wilhoit, of Warrenton, and W. C. Vereen, of Moultrie.

RuthJudd's Screams Stir Courtroom As Parents Tell of Family Insanity

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 17.—(AP) The aged parents and the husband of Winnie Ruth Judd, 28-year-old confessed slayer of two women, testified today that they believe she is insane, while reports seeped out of the state prison here that there is unrest among the convicts over the case.

Meantime, Mrs. Judd's counsel dispatched a formal request to the state prison pardon board that the date of her hanging be moved up from next Friday morning to assure completion of her sanity trial.

Another outburst of the slender blonde woman threw the hearing into confusion late today. She was led screaming and fighting from the courtroom.

"Leave me alone!" she shrieked suddenly in the midst of arguments of counsel, her features contorted and her hair streaming over her face.

"Quit torturing me! You bullies! You cowards! You're gangsters! Quit torturing me!"

The disturbance grew to an uproar punctuated by Mrs. Judd's screams as two matrons tried without avail to silence her.

chancellor emeritus has not been fixed but it is expected that the salary will be in accordance with the nominal duties to be placed on him in the future.

Hughes Spalding, chairman of the board of regents, made it known Monday that Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture, and Dr. Jere M. Pound, president of the State Teachers' College at Athens, are not definitely out of the service of the board.

Dr. Snelling Monday highly praised the action of the board in unifying its system by dropping nine schools and establishing two more.

"The action of the board of regents will do much for higher education in Georgia," he said. "In 10 years Georgia will be an educational model for the rest of the nation."

AMERICANS READY TO FLEE WAR ZONE

Japanese Forces Threaten March on Peiping and Tientsin in China.

PEIPING, April 17.—(UP)—Americans prepared to evacuate their posts in north China tonight as the Japanese offensive below the Great Wall threatened to sweep on to Peiping and Tientsin.

The United States minister, Nelson T. Johnson, notified his consul general to Tientsin, Frank Lockhart, a veteran in the China service, that he would be held responsible for the safeguarding of United States citizens in the war zone.

The minister empowered Lockhart to advise American nationals to evacuate outposts between Tientsin and the wall, where considerable United States mission property is located. Consular and diplomatic authorities have no power to force Americans to evacuate, but ordinarily in emergencies such as this their "advice" is sufficient.

The station master at Changli, where American Methodist mission property is located, including a hospital and school, informed his superiors that Japanese airplanes had dropped five bombs near the mission buildings during an air raid over the Changli line.

The telegram from Changli was supported by an official Chinese military communiqué declaring that a Japanese plane had dropped 30 bombs on Shih-Hsi, 50 miles north of Peiping, killing the leader and 10 workers in the Red Swastika (Cross) Association's relief unit there.

The communiqué claimed the Chinese shot down the Japanese air raider, but not before he had done wide damage.

Lieutenant Joseph G. Felber, a United States officer stationed at Chinwangtao, reported to Colonel Walter S. Drysdale, United States military attaché in Peiping, declared that prior to the Japanese occupation of that port, numerous bombs fell within 200 yards of the United States Fifteenth infantry camp.

With Chinwangtao under Japanese military control, American officials were highly concerned because the United States navy transport Henderson is due at Chinwangtao on regular call on May 12. It may be necessary to divert her into Tientsin, although Tientsin and Peiping are both cut off now from the transport base at Shihwangtao.

GROUP OF SEVEN NAMED TO DECIDE ON LONG PETITION

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee today referred to a subcommittee of seven the question whether the Louisiana citizens' petition making political corruption charges against Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana, and urging his removal was receivable and privileged for publication by the senate.

Headed by Senator King, democrat, Utah, other members are Bratton, New Mexico; McCarran, Nevada; and Van Nuys, Indiana, democrats; and Norris, Nebraska, republican.

Long contended in the senate last week that the petition was privileged and newspapers could not be held responsible for printing its contents, but he wanted the senate to decide.

On motion of Senator Robinson, the democrat, the petition was taken from the elections committee and referred to judiciary.

King said he would call an early meeting to go into the question. A petition signed by 600 today called on the senate to ignore the charges of Long's "enemies."

Steam-Powered Plane Runs Quietly, Stops Easily

OAKLAND, Cal., April 17.—(AP) A public demonstration of a steam-powered airplane heard here today by its creators, William J. and George Besler, sons of W. G. Besler, chairman of the board of the New Jersey Central railroad.

Piloted by William J. Besler, the plane flew for about five minutes and then performed various trips in landing and taking off. One of the features shown was the ability to come to a quick stop after landing by reversing the motor and running a propeller backward. Landing at 50 miles an hour, it was able to stop in that manner within about 100 feet.

Another feature of the plane was its silence. Flying 100 feet above a group of spectators, William J. Besler leaned out of the cockpit and shouted "hello." He was heard plainly on the ground.

He said the plane would travel 100 miles on about 40 cents worth of fuel oil and was capable of a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour.

Congressmen, Friends Use 720 Bottles of Beer

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP) In the same house, restaurant where real beer last was sold 30 years ago, thirsty congressmen, their guests and secretaries today downed 720 bottles of the new 3.2 beverage.

But unlike the scene 30 years ago—when men lined up at the bar—the new beer was sold only at tables.

Promptly at 12 noon it went on sale. The first to be on hand were Representatives Delaney and Boylan, of New York; Berlin, of Pennsylvania; and Fernandez, of Louisiana. And from the time they clinked glasses and cried "Prosit!" "Skool!" and "Here's how!" until the stock of 30 cases finally gave out, the wait was a stream of searchers for the foamy brew.

Many of the buyers were not congressmen, for the beer was served, as well, in the section of the restaurant that is open to the public. But whoever drank it, the beer was all gone in about four hours.

Thirty cases more were ordered for tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—The senate today affirmed its approval of the Black five-day week, six-hour day bill and put up to the house the responsibility for modifying it to meet administration desires for more flexibility in order to spread work among the millions of jobs.

Pinchot Asks Control Of Utility Companies

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 17.—(AP)—Reopening the war utilities fight, Governor Gifford Pinchot, in a message to the legislature tonight, demanded drastic strengthening of state control over public service companies.

He called upon the general assembly to scrap legislation, now in course of enactment, in favor of a new Pinchot-sponsored bill which he said would prevent conditions such as those which led to "the collapse of Mr. Insull's watered empire."

Pinchot assailed the state senate for moving a "rush of dawdling, do-nothing and delay."

Appealing for quick revision of the utility law, he said the public service commission had given effective control over relations with holding companies.

Particularly he emphasized the need for restrictions which would prevent "write-ups" of investments and "pyramiding securities" to which he attributed the collapse of the Samuel Insull utilities system.

DANIELS RECEIVED BY MEXICAN HEAD

Foreign Minister and New Ambassador Talk On Official Affairs.

MEXICO CITY, April 17.—(AP)—Ambassador Joseph Daniels was formally received by Foreign Minister Puig Casauranc today after some of the unofficial criticism of his appointment had been indicated a change of heart.

Mr. Daniels chatted for 45 minutes with the foreign minister—a much longer time than usually is allotted to a new envoy. Within a few days he will be received by President Rodriguez.

El Nacional printed interviews with student leaders in which they said the new ambassador's first remarks in Mexico had created a good impression and had started a reversal of the opinion of him previously held by students.

67 Victims of Akron Said Dead As of April 4

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—The 67 of those aboard the ship Akron when it crashed and who are still unaccounted for were declared by the navy department today to have died as of April 4—the day the ship went down off Banzai light.

There were four survivors of the crash, one of whom died. The bodies of five others were recovered and are still being examined. There have died the same day as the 67 unaccounted for.

Under naval regulations the beneficiaries of the deceased naval personnel will receive six months' full pay, plus the regular flying pay, but less the 15 per cent pay reduction decreed by President Roosevelt.

ment, particularly by students, was based on the fact that he was the secretary of the navy at the time of the occupation of Vera Cruz.

Mr. Daniels was accompanied to the foreign ministry by Arthur Bliss Lane, counselor to the embassy. He and Dr. Puig had completed their chat, they were photographed together. They discussed general topics of interest to the two nations and Mr. Daniels enthusiastically described his trip to Mexico and his first impressions of the country. They talked in English, which is unusual, as Spanish ordinarily is the language for official conversations.

El Nacional printed interviews with student leaders in which they said the new ambassador's first remarks in Mexico had created a good impression and had started a reversal of the opinion of him previously held by students.

ASK $9,000 FOR WIDOWS OF WALSH AND HOWELL

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today asked congress for appropriations of $9,000 each for the widows of the late Senators Thomas J. Walsh and Robert B. Howell.

Formerly congress gave $10,000 to widows or nearest relative to senators and representatives who died while in office, but under the economy act of last year this was reduced.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature. By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

The HONEYMOON MURDER

BY CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Perilla Fairfax and Corey Malden are to be married the next day at Lovell Terrace, the Long Island summer home of John Lovell, her stepfather. Gathered for the wedding are Tony Gaskell, best man, a successful Philadelphia lawyer, Hilda Shelton, maid of honor, and Pete Wilson and Bob Coles, friends of Malcolm Fairfax, Perilla's brother, who are to be ushers.

Corey's home is in Richmond, is very wealthy and lives the life of a country gentleman, but has made an intensive study of the religious of the world, and is considered an authority. He is 35 and Perilla is 24, but it is a true love match; neither of them gives serious consideration to the difference in their ages. Corey's mother is a lovely and efficient secretary. Every body is busy the afternoon and evening before the wedding, aiding in the preparations, including Jane Lattimer, Mrs. Lovell's pretty and efficient secretary. After dinner there is a dress rehearsal and Malcolm and Bob are sent to get the Tenney girls, who live nearby. They are to be in the procession. The rehearsal goes off smoothly, and after they are all satisfied, Malcolm and Bob escort the Tenney girls home. Mrs. Lovell apologizes to Tony for having to double him up with Corey for the night, explaining that she did not expect Bob and Pete to stay overnight. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT III.

But Corey Malden, looking at his chosen bride, wondered how anyone could see any charm in the others. As Perilla's great dark eyes met his own, and her perfect mouth made a smile just for him, he told himself he had won the very pearl of girls.

He wondered a little at this marvelous luck. He was handsome, in a dignified way, had all the courtesies and graces of his southern breeding, but he was nearly 14 years older than Perilla, and years count with a young girl.

But he knew well that his driling was marrying him because of her love for him, her dear precious love that left no room for doubt of her fealty, loyalty and true sincerity.

To the idea that she was attracted by his wealth, he gave no thought. Dearly as Perilla loved beautiful belongings, much as she cared for the luxuries of life, Corey Malden knew that her affection for him was the mainspring of her existence now. They had often talked over the difference of their ages, and had put it from their minds.

And Perilla herself knew her own heart. She was sure of her love, sure of her faith, and she was as happy as it is possible for a girl to be.

Malden's father was dead, and his mother, because of incurable arthritis, was unable to attend the wedding. So they had planned their trip to include the Malden home in Richmond, and Perilla was as anxious to meet Malden's mother as he was to present his bride.

The Tenney sisters, neighbors and long-time friends of Perilla, were excitedly asking questions and making comments, their big blue eyes dancing with delight at every new detail of interest.

They made up the list of the bridal party, and as Mrs. Lovell had little to do in her part she took charge.

But the young people were entirely conversant with the tricks and maneuvers of up-to-date weddings, and after going through the maneuvers twice, declared they could do it blindfolded.

The Tenney girls, escorted by Malcolm and Bob Coles, went home early, and at Mrs. Lovell's suggestion Perilla and Hilda were at once sent to bed.

And no visiting in rooms or whispered good night in the hall. The pleasant voice went on. "Now, Jane, you and I will look after a few little matters, and then bed for us, too. John, I can't dictate to these young men as I do to the girls, but you see to it that they go to their rooms soon after Malcolm comes home."

Malcolm and Bob came home soon, and Mr. Lovell handed over his wife's instructions about getting to bed early.

"Suits me all right," Malcolm said. "I feel like the dickens. I'd no idea getting married meant such a lot of fuss. Got any aspirin, dad? I feel a nervous headache coming on, and I want to be right for tomorrow."

"There's some upstairs, son; I'll give it to you when we go up, and I think we'll go now."

"Don't take aspirin, you old back number," advised Haskell. "I've a much better dose. Made up for me by a A-1 doctor, who knows his business."

"Sure it's all right?" asked Malcolm.

"Quite sure! Famous doctor's prescription and well-known chemist's make up." Tony took a small phial from his pocket. "Here, have one handy. Subject to nervous sleeplessness myself. I'll take mine now."

He took a small white tablet from the bottle and swallowed it, with a sip of water.

"Give me one, will you?" said Mr. Lovell.

"All right, sir. Help yourself. I want you to have one, Corey."

He handed one to Malden, and passed him a glass of water.

Mr. Lovell scrutinized the label. "Oh, I know these people, doctor and chemist both. Whatever they put out is all right. Give me one for Mrs. Lovell, will you?"

"Take the bottle, sir. I can easily get the prescription filled again."

"Thank you, Tony; you are surely a capable best man. I'm sure it will do Ellen good. No, I'm going upstairs, and I advise you to follow pretty soon."

Malcolm took a tablet, remarking that the house seemed like a sanitarium.

"Hurry along," said Tony. "We don't want to enact the seven sleepers tomorrow morning. They all went upstairs then, and to their rooms. Malden and Gaskell shared the large double-bedded room, for which Mrs. Lovell apologized, saying she had not expected Malcolm's two friends to stay overnight.

Next morning no one slept. Gaskell, opening his eyes, found that the prospective bridegroom was already up and in possession of the bathroom.

"Take your time, old top," he called, through the closed door, "and wake me up when you come out."

Malden soon appeared, and gave his sleeping comrade a shake.

Tony opened his eyes and looked at him. "To think," he said, "that I've full charge of you for nearly a whole day. You've got to come when I say come, and go when I say get out! How're feeling?"

"Fine, couldn't be better. Your little pellet worked like a charm."

Corey Malden went downstairs slowly. He was a thoughtful sort, and the fact that it was his wedding day impressed him more sentimentally than it would many. Thought of the ceremony was a hush, but it would soon be over and he and Perilla would go away together to find their own little happiness.

Most of the men were at the breakfast table, but the girls did not appear.

"How is Mrs. Lovell?" Tony inquired, and her husband replied, "Fine. She took one of your pellets, and she slept like a cherub all night. She'll be down soon. You youngsters better eat your breakfast now."

Just as they had finished the eaters arrived at the group at the table rose and scattered. Malcolm grumbling that there ought to be a law against anybody's sister getting married. The men went out on the screened porch and drifted off to different pursuits.

"All right about the will?" asked Tony as he and the bridegroom strolled down the garden path.

"Yes, I fixed it with my lawyer to be in Philadelphia tomorrow morning and meet me there. It's all ready but the signatures, and he'll have witnesses so I shan't need you for that. But look after any mail that comes for me here, and forward it. Here's a list of the addresses. The first lot, send to Richmond; we'll be there a few days. With mother, you know. And she'll invite the whole town to see Corey's bride. She'll adore Perilla, as who doesn't? I'll write you from there any further directions."

"How long shall you be away?"

"Haven't a notion. Just as long as Perilla enjoys motoring about the south. We may go to some of the gay resorts, if she wants to. She's the captain."

"All right, old man. And I won't put it in words, but you know, after our years of friendship, that I wish you and her all the happiness in the whole big world."

Malden made no reply, but his handclasp spoke better than words.

"Now," Tony said, resuming his generalship, "you'd better begin to assume the royal garb. You married, sir, to the robbing room, instantly."

And at the same time, Hilda and Jane were trying to get Perilla into her bridal garb. A coiffeuse came and did her hair, and Miss Perilla promptly shook it down and twisted up her curly locks in her usual careless fashion, which, incidentally was far more becoming.

She was ready in good time, and a fair, leveler bride the sun never looked upon.

Noon came: noon went, and Perilla Fairfax was now Mrs. Corey Malden.

Congratulations over breakfast were served. James Lovell was only a stepfather, but no real father could have put more affection and tenderness in his voice when he proposed the health of the new married pair.

An orchestra gave delightful music and soon the guests were dancing and hilarity ruled. Perhaps Mrs. Lovell enjoyed the scene more than any one else. Her husband was what is called well-off, but their income was as meager as the mother's.

And the fact that Perilla had married the owner of the millions was as balm to the mother's soul. Not that she was a fortune-hunter, but few women would not be glad to see their daughters so fortunately settled for life.

Moreover, Corey was a charming man. Older than Perilla, to be sure, but in looks and behavior often younger than his years. And a man of delightful manners. Scion of one of the first families of Richmond, how could he be otherwise? Thus ran Ellen Lovell's thoughts, when Tony came and sat beside her.

"It's about time to bid your baby good-bye," he said, gently. "Do you want to take her into some other room?"

Almost at the same moment, Bob Coles appeared.

The show will be staged in the main ballroom of the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, but on Tuesday morning exhibitors will please observe the signs directing them to the receiving room, where exhibits will be accepted and properly placed in the ballroom. The reverse side of the labels to be placed on each exhibit will have sufficient space for the name of the rose. Exhibitors are requested to fill this in if the variety name of the rose is known, if not, mark unknown and give some grower a chance to identify it. Single specimens should be exhibited in a container that is more or less straight and large enough for sufficient water.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Mr. Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

"Why should a woman let pride forbid her to help her daughter to make the right choice that will ensure lasting happiness? Why should precedent restrain her from offering every assistance within her power? She wouldn't swim like the beach and catch her daughter's people as they tided that threatened to engulf her, refusing to let her aid on the ground that the girl was supposed to be a good swimmer and able to handle herself in rough water. She would jump in at all hazards, even if she herself couldn't swim, and sacrifice life itself to attempt to rescue her child. Yet yesterday I heard of a mother who remarked: 'I don't care so far as she goes, but I won't have my daughter go down in the social whirl, that her father had given her no assistance in.' And she was in choosing a husband and if her daughter were to die well by herself it was just too bad. Pride, you see, in her own way, can be a very real danger about her daughter held her back."

At the same time I heard of another mother who had called to her young daughter and said to her: "Now you have two marriageable maids and it is time you made up your mind which one you want to marry. Each of them is going to get a wife and he is going to get a wife very soon. If not you, then someone else. Personally, I am not in a hurry to get married, but I am an C. and for these reasons." (The bride then enumerated them and in the end blood laid the facts before her. The bride then said: "I have decided she did, and while she did not ask me to influence her child against me, she dictates of her heart, she sought with the superior degree of intuition an natural way with her long experience of life, to point out to her the serious difficulties in connection with one choice and the danger of the other, and coming to no decision."

that lot of glib talk about the value of a career in the lives of women and no one would deny that these last years about careers as parents who could give their children only paltry advantages, have been the most important years of their lives. The goal of fitting their daughters, as well as their sons, to be self-supporting. This is a very important thing. But something with it goes another ambition which any normal parent must entertain. It is the ambition to have a daughter who will find her heart and be true to it. It is the ambition to have a son who will find his heart and be true to it. The heart of every man speaks though her proud lips may not articulate the words: "Neither may be, nor a career no matter how high honor and fame may accrue to it. It is the greatest of all losses, the loss of that greatest earthly happiness—the discovery of, and

It has come to be a favorite topic with the novelists and dramatists and essayists—this refusal of nature to be cheated of her right without marring and rending the women that have sought to cheat her. For nature's voice is imperious, her laws are inexorable and for the breaking of them, or the ignoring of them, she pays a price.

Even the socially successful daughter needs her mother's guidance and the socially unsuccessful sister is dependent on her mother for help. The mother must first meet men and, secondly, to help her children meet them and interest them. In the absence of pitiable letters from her children, she is comforted by their inability to attract the men. Nobody can criticise a girl who hasn't the courage to love, for she has not the heart to loving him. But one can criticise the parents who stand idly making no effort to help their children. The mother must endeavour to overcome their deficiencies, and make which propinquity can play its part. Love and life have not passed away. The mother must be a cup to the last drop, yet through ignorance, or pitilessness, or ignorance, false pride, they are sitting still and waiting for the day when

TARZAN THE APE MAN No. 20

"They're after him—they're quite close now," replied Holt. "I can't hear anything," said Jean. "I can," replied Holt, listening. He made a gesture to the natives to cover the sick man. As they did so he listened again. Everybody remained still.

The men grouped themselves around Jean in protective attitudes. Parker sat quietly on top of the man, now completely hidden by a canvas. Still all was quiet—the men holding their defensive positions. There was a sudden swishing stir in the bushes.

Then the fearsome tribesmen burst out, halting before the fire. Holt called to their chief, who stepped forward. A moment or two they talked in Swahili. "What does he say?" asked Jean. "They are looking for a man who has broken a law of the tribe," answered Holt.

"But no man has passed here—we should have seen him," said Jean. Holt repeated this sentence in Swahili to the chief, who accepted the explanation. He returned to his tribe and they melted into the night as mysteriously as they came. Jean was first to speak.
